

HOMSTEADERS CUT SUPPLY OF BEEF CATTLE

Turning of Western Ranges into Farms Held Responsible for High Price of Meat

(By Winfield Jones)
WASHINGTON, August 17.—The taking up of the western ranges by homesteaders, resulting in a shortage in the supply of beef cattle for consumption by the millions of people largely dependent upon cattle grown in that region, has brought about a rise in the price of steers at the great abattoirs of the country, and a decided increase of cost of meat to the consumer in the cities.

Naturally, also, it has caused both the growers and buyers to look about for fresh pastures for the herds upon which their prosperity and business depends.

The secretary of agriculture years ago saw the inevitable crisis, and turned his attention to providing ample sustenance for the stock needed to supply the market, and which could no longer be furnished by the west.

The locality was found in the south and southwest, but that country was infested by an insect that made a cattle raising industry unprofitable if not impossible. So for the past six years the bureau of animal industry has been conducting tick eradication work in all but one of the states of the infested region, in cooperation with the state authorities, and has freed 162,643 square miles of the Texas fever tick and relieved that area of the restrictions placed by national quarantine on the shipment of cattle to other sections.

In a considerable additional area, the work of eradication is well under way, but the territory already freed exceeds the combined area of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. The eradication of the cattle tick is of prime importance to the agricultural interests of the infested section, but the benefits resulting therefrom would not be confined to them. In fact, it would be enjoyed to a great extent by the rest of the country.

The progress so far made in the co-operative campaign by the department and the state authorities, deemed to accomplish the complete elimination of the cattle tick, although a number of years of hard work will be required to free the entire country of this pest.

It is of great importance that the efforts of the officials should be supplemented by the farmers, and to this end a Farmers' Bulletin, giving "Methods of Extirminating the Texas Fever Tick" in a practical manner that can be utilized by the farmer or stockman, who has already begun or who contemplates the complete extermination of this pest from his farm, can be obtained from the bureau of animal industry.

These methods may be improved upon as new facts become available, but they have already reached such a degree of perfection and have been given such wide practical tests, that the main part of the task is to enlist a hearty, vigorous and conscientious co-operation on the part of the people—in other words, the work will progress from now on just as rapidly as the people desire it, and no faster.

The Dancer.

"His little slanting eyes followed the butterfly movements of Lan-Tin here and there, the free flow of her little head and the graceful abandon of her arms as she flung them over her head, and again brought them down with a sweeping bend to the very ground. Lan-Tin forgot the mandarin and all his regal magnificence. She was playing a pretty little game of make-believe. She was the wind blowing through the plum tree. Tossing and twirling, bending low as did the drooping branches, waving slowly, rushing fiercely like a tiny whirlwind. With flushed cheeks and glowing eyes she was the spirit of the wind.

"Then a funny thing happened.

From outside the windows that opened on the perfumed Chinese night came the sound of loud hand-clapping and deep, strange voice shouting 'Brava!'

She dropped down on a cushion, no longer a wind fairy, but a little wilted flower."—From "The Tale of Little Lan-Tin," by Flo Hingler.

First to Use Chloroform.

Chloroform as an anesthetic was first used on the 26th of September, 1846, by Dr. W. T. G. Morton, a dentist, of Boston, in a case of tooth extraction, and thereafter by him in many difficult operations. The news of the discovery reached England in December, 1846, and British dentists immediately began to use it. Sir James Simpson, a Scotch physician (1811-1870) was the first to use it in hospital practice and this he did in 1847. His discovery was considered independent of that by the Boston dentist and in 1856 he was knighted. He had a public funeral when he died and a statue of him in bronze stands in Edinburgh.

LOVE FOR CHORUS GIRL WIFE NEARLY COSTS LIFE OF YOUNG N. Y. ARISTOCRAT

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manville, Jr.

NEW YORK Aug. 17.—Unfaltering love for his pretty chorus girl wife has come very near costing twenty-year-old Thomas Manville, Jr., his life.

Closely the young New York aristocrat, who a year ago was driven from his father's home for marrying Florence Huber, a chorus girl, is recovering from the effects of an operation for appendicitis, against which his system, weakened by unwanted privation, fought almost in vain. For days he lay in a hospital, struggling for life, while his wife, her pretty eyes swollen with weeping, sat beside his cot day and night, bathing his brow and doing all she could to restore him to health.

The story of how Manville and his young wife were married in June 1911, was well aired in the papers at the time the event took place. The courtship lasted but three days.

"I like your looks," he had told Miss Huber.

"And I like yours," she replied. "Suppose we go and see a show." They went, and two days later were married.

Then followed more weddings. The fact that Thomas was so eager to be more married was directly due to the fact that his papa, the asbestos king, was due to arrive home in three days from Europe, whence he went upon the receipt of a mysterious tip to the effect that his son and his wife was about to wed a show girl in London.

Papa seemed to be very much opposed to his son marrying a show girl, and as the son was not yet of age he naturally feared that dad would try to have the marriage annulled.

"Let's get married in three different states," he told his wife. "Father will likely bring annulment proceedings against our marriage. It will be much harder to break two marriages than one and three than two. By the time he has broken these we can get married in still another state and when he breaks that we can wed in a fifth and so on. There are forty-six states in the union."

And so it came about that when the elder Manville returned from his wild goose chase in England he found that his son had been married to one girl three times in three different states. This did not put him in a good state of mind. In fact, he was decidedly angry.

At first he tried threats of annulment, but he soon discovered that the young couple could not be discouraged or subdued in such a manner.

Then he tried the persuasive power of money.

"I will give you or her $50,000 in cash to get a divorce," he suggested. "It's no use, dad, we love each other," answered the boy. Whereupon his father cut him off without a penny.

After their third marriage the Manvilles went to live at the Waldorf; then they took up apartments on Riverside drive. As the bridegroom's money ran lower they rented a little flat in the outskirts of the big city where they still live. Then the young man deprived of the creature comforts which had been his, started to hunt for work. Finding a job wasn't nearly as easy as he had thought it would be.

Finally, after vain efforts to secure a reconciliation with his father had been made, Thomas found employment as an automobile demonstrator, and while he worked his fair-haired little bride kept herself busy in the kitchen preparing meals or in the tiny sitting room darning socks for her little lord. They stolidly determined to fight it out without "dad's money."

"I am happier than I have ever been," Mrs. Manville, Jr., now says. "As long as Tom loves me and doesn't get indigestion from my cooking, we are going to get along nicely. Money is all very well, but we are going to show Tom's father that it isn't everything, and some day he may see how stupid he has been to oppose our marriage. A girl doesn't have to have money to win a man. Appearance counts for a great deal. Tom and I were married three days after we had met and I never care the same again."

"I tried to suggest, sunshine, to him. A girl must be nice, but not too willing to win the right man."

"As for marrying young," says Thomas, "I don't see why dad should kick. He married when he was old—thirty-one—and it didn't take very well either, for he and mother were divorced a couple of years ago. Now if he had been married at my age—well, we're married, so why worry? If a fellow wants to win a girl in three days he has got to be impetuous, and remember that the little things appeal to her more than the big ones. He ought to deluge her with presents and spend all his money on her. There's plenty of time to curtail expenses after they're married. He has to marry her before she gets her breath."

TO CONSIDER RATES ON VEGETABLES AND FRUITS SEPT. 4

Arizona Corporation Commission Will Probe into Freight Charges in State

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 17.—On Wednesday, September 4, at its office in the state capitol, the Arizona Corporation commission will take up and consider the matter of railroad rates in Arizona on all classes of fruits and vegetables. Every effort will be made by the commission to secure information concerning the transportation of fruit and vegetables between all points in Arizona.

It is believed that more favorable rates on these classes of commodities would greatly increase the amount of production within this state, not only for consumption within Arizona, but for markets outside of the state.

Fruit and vegetable growers are interested in the proposed hearing and it is expected many will be present to give testimony.

Clocks Run by Fan Motors.

Fans actuated by currents of air have from time to time been used as motors for running clocks. One, by Lepaute, is in the Louvre, Paris. Benjamin Hanks, of Litchfield, Conn., Connecticut, patented one in 1783. In a more recent patent the weight is wound up by the current of air in a chimney which is stopped by a self-acting brake as the weight nears the top of its course.

friendly rivalry. A large attendance is expected to result from this the second meeting of these two orders.

WILL ENTER FOOTBALL

It is stated that the Knights of Columbus will organize a football team this fall and put a strong team in the field which will make all comers hush. A committee to have this sport in hand is composed of Andrew Duffy, Joe Eldon, Pat Smith, U. Shaw and W. Cunningham. Now here is an opportunity for other lodges to get into a new sport. No reason appears why some of the others cannot also organize strong teams and a fraternal football league be started. The lodges of Bisbee will fill their duties in indoor social life and fraternalism but have done little to encourage out of door life. Now comes the opening of a new field of endeavor and if the example of the Knights of Columbus is followed there will be some good healthy sport during the coming fall and early winter.

SEASON OPENS SOON

Devotees of Terpalchore and the friends of B. P. O. E. 671 have not now long to wait. The summer has flitted by and the Elks have given out one dance. Autumn is at hand, vacationists are coming home and during the summer months the Elks' entertainment committee have not been idle. Long since they decided to open the social season early and decided further that September was not too early. After that plans took more definite shape and even the idea of decorations has been considered and settled. The affair will be held sometime after the fifteenth of next month and those who expect invitations are now eagerly awaiting this opening dance.

The invitation list will be curtailed some over last year for the demand then was always in excess of the limits of the dancing floor in the lodge room.

EAGLES TO CANANEA

Sunday September 1 has been selected as the date for the baseball game between the Bisbee and Cananea Eagles. At first it was planned to run down an excursion in the morning and return the same night but this plan has been abandoned. The team will go and so will a number of other baseball fans and Eagles but they will remain over night and return home Labor Day afternoon. The Eagles at Cananea are one of the strongest orders in the camp, probably the strongest and number in their membership nearly all of the ball players. This means that the visiting Bisbee team will have a hard time winning, but at that it makes little difference for fraternalism and the drawing closer of the bonds that hold the two lodges of this order are really the matters of importance.

Friday evening there was a special meeting of the Elks lodge for initiation and three candidates were given their antlers, these were Fred Reynolds and A. N. Longfield of the Review and A. J. Logan of the Fair Store. Following the initiatory ceremony a Mulligan stew was served.

Plan Cananea Excursion.

Bisbee Elks are planning a visit to their brothers at Cananea and a committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the trip. September 15 has been selected as the date as it is understood that both that day, Sunday, and Monday are holidays in the Big Mexican Copper camp. Cananea Elks are members of the Bisbee lodge. They have no opportunity to attend lodge at home and enjoy the benefits of the home here only on such occasions as they are able to make the trip, up though when in this country all homes are open to them no matter in what city they may be. It has been six years since their Bisbee brothers paid them a visit in a body and it has been learned that a social call would be acceptable. The matter of special train and special rate will be taken up this week as will the taking along of the band. The committee hopes to announce all arrangements before the first of September.

MOOSE vs EAGLES

Next Sunday a return game of baseball is expected to be played between the Eagles and the Moose. Thus far this season the Moose have apparently been invincible but this immunity to defeat the Eagles are not willing to admit and asked for another try which was granted them. The date has been tentatively set for Sunday next if the grounds can be obtained as it is believed they can. This will mean another fraternal turnout at Warren Park and a game replete with good natured rooting and keen but
